Michael C. Epps was born and raised in Atlantic City, attended Atlantic City public schools, and graduated from Atlantic City High School. He earned a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Maryland and went on to Howard University School of Law for his Juris Doctor. Appointed in 2001, he became the first Atlantic City native to serve on the New Jersey Casino Control Commission. Epps served for two five-year terms and was Vice Chairman for two years.

"MY FONDEST MEMORY OF GAMING... IS ULTIMATELY BEING APPOINTED TO THE CASINO CONTROL COMMISSION AND SERVING THERE FOR TEN YEARS AND HAVING THAT INTIMATE INVOLVEMENT IN GUIDING THE INDUSTRY THAT IMPACTS MY HOMETOWN AND HOME COMMUNITY AND HOME STATE."

The Casino Control Commission spotlights Black History in Atlantic City and its casino industry. This is part of that series.
